Wear your pic on your tee

Getting your favourite photograph printed on your t-shirt is cool but as of today one needs to go to specific printers to get it done. But now, Hewlett-Packard has announced its entry into this retail photo printing market with the launch of HP Retail Photo Solutions. A photo smart machine, something that would resemble your ATM machine, along with a photosmart microlab printer would be installed across cities. The company also launched HP Snapfish - a free on-line photo service.
