

CIOL DATAQUEST PCQUEST VOICE+DATA DQ Channels THE DQWEEK

November 29, 2010

A CYBER MEDIA brand

Search Living Digital

RSS | Newsletters

Home News Reviews Features Gaming LD Recommends

The Living Digital Mobile Survey 2010 LD2 now available in E-Reader

Extend your applications to the Cloud

Shorten your long URL:

ASK LD

Ask your question here...

Seek our knowledgebase in

HOT CATEGORIES

MOBILES	TELEVISIONS	LAPTOPS	DIGICAMS	MP3/MP4

FORUMS

News

<< Home

Just IN! Asus launches their NX90 no...

Snapfish App for iPhone

Now available on the App Store

Posted on: Friday, February 05, 2010 08:39 IST | Vishal Mathur

Updated on: Friday, February 05, 2010 08:44 IST

Email Print Comments RSS 2 retweet

HP has announced the availability of the Snapfish app for iPhone. This app allows users to upload, share and store photos online, free of charge. This app is an extension of HP's Snapfish online photo sharing and printing service.

The application also allows new users to create an account from within the app itself. Existing users can simply log in and start sharing.

The Snapfish app is free to download from the Apple App Store.

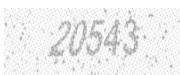

User Comments

Would you like to Comment on this Article?

Name

Email

Comment Here

Code Verification

Be first to comment on this article

CONTEST

Q) What is Android v3.0 called?

- A. Eclair
- B. Cupcake
- C. Gingerbread

Question Code 305

About Living Digital | Contact Us | Site Map | Media Kit | jobs@Cybermedia | RSS | Feedback

•CIOL •PCQuest •Dataquest •Voice&Data •DQ Channels •DQ Week •Global Services Media •CyberMedia Events •Cyber Astro
•CyberMedia Digital •CyberMedia •BioSpectrum •BioSpectrum Asia •DARE •Technology Review

Copyright 2000 - 2009 by CyberMedia India Online Ltd. All rights reserved.
Usage of content from web site is subject to Terms and Conditions